The collecting of coins as an investment is a rather new phase which has come to include a very large percentage of the present-day collectors. In these times of economic upheavals and political changes, the man with money to invest finds himself really searching for the proper place to put it. During the past few years we have noticed a great increase in the demand for the regular series of United States coins such as proofs and sets. While there has always been a demand for such coins, and they have been widely collected, such a marked increase brings to mind that this may be due to the fear of possible inflation. Investments in stocks and bonds and other such items seldom survive inflation, whereas few losses have been sustained on collections of coins. Matched sets and proof coins, have a value much beyond their intrinsic worth, and form a permanent investment which gains in value with the years, and which is always salable. During the so-called inflationary period of the 20's the value of United States coins increased remarkably, and for the most part these values have held, except in the gold series.

With the war in Europe, the great influx of foreign coins, both modern and ancient, has been practically brought to a stand-still. Some collections, of course, have found their way over here, but not enough to fill the demand of collectors. Those who have formed collections of foreign coins will find them increasing in value. Many of the coins which were once common will be scarce after the war, due to loss, fire, theft and the melting pot. During the World War, in this country foreign crowns and ancient coins brought high prices in auction sales. The present war, which touches the average man more closely than any war in history, is bound to result in a direct rise in price on all coins, making now common pieces scarce, and others altogether unobtainable.

Exhibition of Architects' Medals

The American Numismatic Society has opened to the public an exhibition of Architects' Medals formed by Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Eidlitz and recently presented to the Society by Mrs. Eidlitz. Altho the Exhibition comprises about 1000 items and fills the cases in the main exhibition room it represents scarcely one-fifth of the entire collection. Some years ago, because of his profession, Mr. Eidlitz decided to concentrate on items pertaining to architects. The decision as to what came within that category was not always easy to make and hence there are included medals of personages who might in our present-day society of specialists be termed sculptors, civil engineers or military engineers. Many of the individuals represented are better known for their activity in fields other than that of architecture altho all have left concrete evidence of their proficiency in that art. Of these, we might cite Durer, well known as an engraver; Michaelangelo and da Vinci, famed as painters and sculptors; Thomas Jefferson, more familiar to us as a statesman; and Montgolfier, renowned for his successful experiments with the air balloon. Other names more closely associated with architecture are adequately represented: Sir Christopher Wren and Inigo Jones, whose lovely London work is now threatened with destruction; Canova, the architect-sculptor of Napoleon's time; Bulfinch, at one time architect on our Capitol building in Washington; and Stanford White of the moderns. The Exhibition is arranged alphabetically by personage and this arrangement brings into juxtaposition medals from nearly every country extending from our own time back to the Renaissance. On the whole the results are pleasing and reflect the ebb and flow of medallic art for the past five centuries. The Society plans to continue the Exhibition until its annual meeting in January.

RAILROAD NOTES

By H. R. STEPHENS

The Ocmulgee & Flint River Railroad or Canal Company

The history of this company is rather interesting and yet incomplete. The earliest mention is in the Georgia Laws of 1827, page 159—"An act to grant to Thomas Spaulding and his associates the right of constructing a railroad of wood or digging a canal from the Ocmulgee to the Flint River with certain privileges." That he and such persons as he may associate himself with, being citizens of the United States, be authorized to cut a canal or construct a railroad of wood from the Ocmulgee to the Flint River from and to such points as they may deem most proper and fit. That five years be allowed for the completion of railroad, or ten years for the canal, both dating from passage of act—December 22nd, 1827.

The term of construction was extended several times, and on Dec. 23rd, 1840 privilege was given to Spaulding and associates to construct and build (on their own land) a bridge across the Flint River at such place, at or near Albany, Ga., in such manner and at such time as may be most conducive to the interest of said company—

They were empowered to charge the following rates:—

12½c for man and horse.

25c for horse cart.

37½c for ox cart.

50c for two wheeled pleasure carriage and 1 horse wagon.

75c for one horse four wheeled pleasure carriage and two horse wagon, etc.

6¼c for each head of horse.

3c for each head of swine, sheep or goats.

Foot passengers and all persons passing over bridge with produce for market free of all charge for themselves and teams.

Whether or not there was ever any construction by this incorporation is doubtful, no further reference ever being made of the company, inquiry from the State Department of Georgia as to present whereabouts being answered negatively.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company

Oldest existing original chartered
Railroad in the United States.

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company was chartered in the State of Maryland, February 28th, 1827, and in Virginia March 8, 1827.

By the charter its capital stock was placed at $5,000,000 with the right to organize on the subscription of one-fifth of that amount. In April 1827 sufficient subscriptions had been obtained, the company was organized and surveys of the route undertaken. On the 4th of July 1827 the road having been finally located to Point of Rocks, the construction of the road was begun with considerable ceremony. These consisted of the attendance of a Masonic Lodge in full regalia, Carroll of Carrollton who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and other officials.

Work on this line progressed rapidly and by 1853 was in operation from Baltimore to Wheeling, a distance of approximately 375 miles. The first section of road on its opening was operated by horse power, steam being substituted on August 30th, 1830. This line is still being operated under original charter and name.

The Chicago, Burlington & Pacific Railroad Co.

The $1.00 note illustrated and bearing the name of the above railroad is the first one of this series having the endorsement of another railroad attesting to its validity, the Central Iowa Railway Company guaranteeing redemption of all notes.

The Chicago, Burlington & Pacific

Company was incorporated under the general laws of Iowa January 29th, 1880 as the New Sharon Coal Valley and Eastern Railroad Company, the name being changed to the first mentioned as of January 7th, 1882.

Under date of April 1st, 1882 this road was sold to the Central Iowa Railway Company, the line consisting on date of sale of 128.88 miles of single track, standard gauge railroad, all located within the State of Iowa. There were two main lines, one running from Oskaloosa, Iowa to the west bank of the Mississippi River, opposite Keithsburg, Ill., the other from Newton to New Sharon, Iowa, with a branch to Lynnvile, Iowa. All of this property was acquired by construction during 1882, the entire work being performed by the Trunk Line Construction Co., an unaffiliated company.

CANADIAN COIN NOTES

Edited by J. DOUGLAS FERGUSON

At the recent Detroit convention of the American Numismatic Association there were several interesting exhibits of Canadian Numismatic items, including a splendid display by the Toronto Coin Club. Their's was a general display, typifying the Numismatic History of Canada, and it was well arranged and described.

The Club was represented at the Convention by G. N. Robillard, the President, and the District Secretary of the Association for the Province of Ontario, Mr. Norman Mason.

Perhaps the finest Canadian Collection exhibited at this year's convention was that of the able Past President, Mr. James Clarke. His Canadian collection as displayed was remarkable for condition and contained many rarities.

The Medallion History of Canada was interestingly represented by three Indian Chief Medals in separate displays, one of which was sold in the convention auction sale.

Included in the remarkable display of encased postage stamps as exhibited by B. Max Mehl were the rare 1 cent and 10 cent Weir & Larminie. We wonder who are the fortunate possessors of the other denominations which are understood to have been issued, of this extremely rare issue of encased stamps. The writer has but these two denominations in his collection and in the many collections he has seen he has never come across any other denomination. These must be extremely rare and possibly, unique.

The Five Sols of 1670

Two hundred thousand of these pieces were issued under edict of Louis XIV as an aid to the commerce of LA COMPAGNIE DES INDES. They were issued under the same edict that brought about the 15 sol piece of the same year. While the rarity of the smaller coin would not at all compare with that of the 15 Sol piece, it is to be found in very few collections and can rarely be purchased. It is certainly well worth the present catalogue value. It is rather interesting to note that its value was later increased to 6 Sols and 8 Deniers.

Wood's Blacksmiths' Tokens

Our friend Clifton A. Temple of Detroit is a keen student of this series. He has been particularly fortunate in locating a number of very rare examples of this series. One of his recent finds was an example of Wood's No. 32, in brass. He also has it in its more normal composition of copper. Although not listed by Wood in brass, another specimen is in the collection of the Antiquarian and Numismatic Society of Montreal in the Château de Rame-say there.

Notes on U. S. Pattern Coins

DOUBLE EAGLES

- A-W 106. Adams writes that Dr. Davis had a specimen of the 1849 double eagle in gilt and states that one has been reported in Copper. We have never seen either of these and if they exist would like information.
- A-W 334. The Newcomer collection had this piece in copper.
- A-W 335. We have been unable to locate a specimen of this piece.
- A-W 1464 to 1467. It would seem possible that two dies have been confused in describing these coins.

EAGLES

- A-W 19. This piece was in the Newcomer collection and has a most peculiar appearance. The cancellation might intimate that it was considered to be a counterfeit. A similar piece dated 1797 was also in the Newcomer collection but uncanceled.
- A-W 473. This piece is not in any collection known to us.

HALF EAGLES

- A-W 21, 24, 25, 27, 28. These are all restrikes from old, discarded dies.

- A-W 40. We are unable to locate this piece in any present day collection.
- A-W 99, 102. These are counterfeits of the period.
- 1844 in platinum appeared in the Newcomer collection. While of fairly good work it is undoubtedly a counterfeit.
- A-W 1411. Does not exist.

QUARTER EAGLES

- A-W 324. Not known. Has probably been confused with A-W 218.

DIMES

- A-W 3. We are unable to locate this piece.

HALF DIMES

- A-W 17. We are not able to locate this piece and Adams gives no information.
- A-W 20. This is certainly not a mint product as the relief is much too high.
- A-W 310. This coin is not in any collection with which we are familiar.

Tetradrachms of Caracalla and Macrinus. By Alfred R. Bellinger. New York 1940. 116 pages, XXVI plates.

The purpose of this study is to identify the mints of Syria which participated in the coinage of tetradrachms in the reigns of Caracalla and Macrinus. The mint of Antioch struck a coinage of tetradrachms which continued with few breaks from the reign of Augustus to that of Trebonianus Gallus. Under Caracalla a number of mints which heretofore had struck only copper coins are found striking tetradrachms similar to those of Antioch. Numismatists of an earlier day had failed to treat the coinage as a whole and their attribution of individual pieces had frequently been inconclusive. Professor Bellinger, making use of the mass of material available from the Dura excavations as well as casts and data from public and private collections here and abroad, has studied the coinage of the whole district and has been successful in distinguishing between the output of no less than twenty-eight mint cities. The work clears up many problems and is bound to be of great service to students of the provincial coinage of Syria.

AUCTION SALES

A number of coin dealers in the United States devote much of their time to conducting auction sales. Most sales are planned and prepared months in advance so do not send coins to be sold unless you have had correspondence with the cataloguer. When bidding at a sale, always send commercial references or send a deposit and ask the dealer to bill you for the coins before shipping. The dealer is actually an agent handling another person's property and cannot risk sending it to strangers. A club number is not a reference.
